Training Progress and Challenges Report

Hope village - February 2026

Session Overview:
Time management during the session was effective, allowing focused attention on two to three cases.

Individual Progress & Observations

K-hope village case:
K displays non-verbal communication. Previously he preferred sitting near the door and training on the bicycle. In past sessions, Coach Andrew had gradually encouraged him to use the treadmill at low speeds.
On 4th Feb., he trained independently, refused to use the bicycle, and successfully worked on the treadmill. This indicates noticeable progress and reduced anxiety toward treadmill use.

MG-hope village:
MG displays persistent pressure (insistence through repetition") to obtain what he wants.
During 4th Feb. session, part of a machine was intentionally removed to suit the planned exercise. He repeatedly insisted on restoring it. The coach-maintained boundaries and offered a conditional agreement: completing the assigned exercise first.
Later, he requested boxing training. He was informed that he must first walk on the treadmill. He completed five minutes with difficulty and was then allowed to practice boxing.

Behavioral Note

At the end of the session, accumulated frustration was expressed through aggressive behavior toward the supervisor, attempting to hit her. This indicates ongoing challenges in emotional regulation and anger management.

Overall Assessment

The session showed positive behavioral progress in overcoming avoidance (K-Hope village case) and improving compliance with structured conditions (MG-Hope village case). However, emotional regulation, particularly anger management, remains an area requiring continued intervention and structured support.
